In a public speech Lord Salisbury severely attacked the policy of the Government in Egypt, and said that the atrocities at Sinkat dishonoured England, whose hesitating policy had rendered possible, in the 19th Century, such outrages on civilization.

THE WOODEN HOUSES.

The long-expected cargo of Wooden Houses has at last arrived by steamer at Ensenada, and already half the carpenters in the city have been engaged to proceed to La Plata to put them up. A business so simple and of such short duration that by the end of the month they expect to have them all put together and in habitable condition. Fifteen hundred houses ready for occupation will, of course, turn the La Plata scales, and those who doubted the realization of this Capital, will now have full opportunity to witness the fulfilment of Dr. Plaza's predictions when, as Godfather to the new city, he made the inaugural speech.

With almost inspired wisdom Dr. Plaza foretold the beautiful Wooden Houses and the cheerful appearance they would give the new city. It will refresh the memory of our readers, the following extract from that memorable speech, when he scanned the history of Chicago and identified the past of that city with the future of La Plata. H.E. said:—

"Some people consider that the success of the new Capital is very problematical, while others, perhaps, form exaggerated ideas of its success. I am inclined to be one of the latter, as I have faith in and no doubts as to the future.

"Barely fifty years ago there was a fort and fur-trading station in a swampy and remote territory in the West of the United States. With a presentiment of its future greatness a few families gathered there and began to till the ground, thus laying in that desert spot the foundations of a future city.

"At first it was thought that the place would never be anything more than an unhealthy hamlet, the home of adventurers. What a mistake! Man's labour transformed it; enthusiasm vivified it, and the desert waste was converted into green fields.

"In a few years the place became a centre of business and wealth. Work and business increased with prodigious rapidity, and the huts were transformed into elegant two-storey wooden houses!"

Next month will probably witness very great changes both in this city and in La Plata. Governor Rocha perseveres with the most iron determination in his course, and now that the employees and others will have houses to live in, we must prepare ourselves for a new departure. The greatest of all moves would be the removal of the Provincial Bank, which some parties, who ought to be well informed in the matter, insist will be carried out. That La Plata, backed up by the Government and all the Provincial resources, is destined to become an important place, nobody can in the least doubt; already they are building barracas there for the produce that will be carried to it over the Western Railway by the new branch from Moron, and possibly events may corroborate Dr. Plaza's speech, and in less than 30 years from now, La Plata with its wooden houses may become the Chicago of the Plate. Of one thing there can be little doubt, namely, that La Plata is destined to tap much of the trade of Buenos Aires, and its wooden houses, like unto the old wooden horse of Troy, may yet prove to have been pregnant with mighty consequences.

THE LA PLATA "BANCO CONSTRUCTOR."

Little is known in the market with regard to this promising concern, which is an unerring proof of the advance of enterprising spirit in this country. It is only of late that this spirit of enterprise has sprung up; the Argentine Lloyd, the steam lighter company, several sugar companies, mark the advance in the last few years. The Banco "Constructor de La Plata" was started under the auspices of the pioneer of the scheme, Mr. Schweitzer, and in its short existence has shown that there is room for ample development of the idea, which, nobody will deny, is an excellent one and will certainly yield handsome returns on the capital invested, if well managed, and no cataclysm shakes this market.

The authorized capital of the concern has been fixed at $200,000 m/n in two thousand pats., of $100 m/n each. Up to the present only one hundred thousand shares have been issued—a very small amount for the purposes of this building bank; before any scope can be expected, in the operations of the Bank the entire capital must be subscribed. As is usual with embryonic enterprises, not well known in the market, there is a certain atmosphere not so much of distrust as of diffidence, which can only be removed by publicity and more frequent contact with capitalists. The formation of the Argentine Lloyd met with the same cool reception, and in fact, all new enterprises must run the gauntlet of this prejudicial criticism. The Banco Constructor has up to the present been very useful in its sphere—in La Plata—and one notices with pleasure that it meets with the support of men like Mr. E. Murphy, Vice-President, Hernandez, Mihanovich and others. If the capital of the Bank were increased it were better for the building purposes for which the Bank was started, and for the shareholders, who would have a wider field to operate in.

The principal is irredeemable, except in the event of liquidation, when it will be repayable at par, and is further secured by the deed referred to below.

The Government guarantee of 7 per cent amounts to £161,863 per annum for 20 years. The interest on the whole of the authorised Debenture Stock when issued will only amount to £81,883 per annum.

Messrs Juan Eduardo Clark and Mateo Clark, of London, Valparaiso, and Buenos Aires, have entered into a contract for the construction, completion, and equipment of the entire railway to the satisfaction of the Government engineer and of the Company's engineer, for the share capital (consisting of £1,000,000 in 7 per cent. The payments in respect of the contract are only made against material supplied and work done at a fixed rate per kilometer on the certificate of the Company's engineer.

The sum of £50,000 being the amount provided for by the contract as a retention fund, has already accumulated in the hands of the Company by the deduction of 10 per cent out of payments made to the contractors.

The contractors undertake the due payment of the interest on the Debenture Stock, until the guarantee of the Government comes into force, as each section of the line is opened for traffic.

The Preferred Share Prospectus, containing full particulars of the undertaking, together with the Government Decrees and other documents therein referred to, the Memorandum and Articles of Association, and the deed for securing the Debenture Stock, can be inspected at the offices of the solicitors of the Company.

THE LATE REV. MR. LETT.

We received yesterday the following letter from Rosario. It speaks for itself, and also to the hearts of the whole British community, even of those who never had the privilege of knowing the good and zealous clergyman who has been cut off in the prime of life and in the discharge of his duty. The widow and the orphan have special claims everywhere, but nowhere could they be greater or better founded than those which now come to us from Rosario from the widow and children of the much lamented Rev. Mr. Lett, and we feel certain the response will be generous:—

Rosario de Santa Fe,
Feb. 14, 1894.

Sir,

In consequence of the death of the Rev. F. M. Lett, a public meeting was held on Monday, the 11th inst., to initiate the "Lett Memorial Fund," for the benefit of the widow and orphans, at which I was requested to inform you that, in conjunction with the following gentlemen,

Rev. G. Spilsbury, B. A.
Messrs. Mulhall, J. Potts,
E. Casey, C. Trevor Mold,
J. Ramsay, H. Marrs, M.
Forrester, G. Cooper and Professor Kyle.

You were nominated to aid in raising subscriptions to the above fund in B. Aires and district.

The committee being aware of your friendly feeling towards the deceased, and confiding in your sympathy with those bereft, beg that you will kindly consent to co-operate with Mr. Potts, who has been asked to take such initiatory steps as may be deemed desirable for the furtherance of our common object.

Thanking you in anticipation,
I remain,
Yours truly,
Albert Knight, Hon. Sec.

E. T. Mulhall, Esq.,
Standard Office, Buenos Aires.

BUENOS AIRES AND ENSENADA PORT RAILWAY.

An extraordinary meeting of the shareholders of this company was held on the 4th inst., at the offices, 8, Drapers'-gardens, Throgmorton-street; Mr J. Winterbotham in the chair, for the purpose of confirming the resolutions passed at the meeting on the 4th ult.

The Secretary (Mr J. Wilson Theobald) having read the notice convening the meeting.

The Chairman said, as that was a statutory meeting, and the object of the resolution was fully explained at the meeting held on the 14 December, it was not necessary for him to do more than to move that the following resolution passed at the meeting held on the 14th December, 1883, be confirmed:—

"That the Bill submitted to this meeting, and which is proposed to be introduced into Parliament in the ensuing session, entitled 'A Bill to make provision with reference to arrears of dividend on the preference shares of the Buenos Aires and Ensenada Port Railway Company, Limited, and for other purposes,' be and the same is hereby approved, subject to such alteration, if any, as may be required by Parliament and agreed to by the directors."

He had great pleasure in moving that resolution.

Mr Ker seconded the motion.

Mr. Reeves said he supposed it was too late to ask what the Bill was.

The Chairman said this was a statutory meeting to confirm the resolution; it carried out the terms which were agreed to by the shareholders in the circular.

The resolution was then put and carried.

The Solicitor said the chairman would now move the confirmation of the next resolution as follows:—

"That article 42 of the articles of association of the company be and the same is hereby altered by adding thereto the following provisions, viz:—"The board may, from time to time, create and issue mortgage debenture stock of the company to an amount not exceeding in the whole £200,000, the aggregate amount of the said stock for the time being in issue, and the interest thereon to rank pari passu as a first charge on the undertaking and revenue of the company, the stock to be issued at such times, in such amounts, and on such terms and conditions as the board shall from time to time determine, for the purpose of redeeming, by exchange or otherwise, the outstanding debentures of the company, and any other purpose to which the capital of the company may be lawfully applicable, and the board may make such provision as they think expedient for the registration and transfer of mortgage debenture stock, and for the delivery of certificates thereof, and for the issue of stock warrants to bearer, transferable by delivery and of interest coupons attached to such certificates and warrants or otherwise, and for the conversion of warrants to bearer into registered stock, and of registered stock into warrants to bearer, and generally as to the form and incidents of all documents relating to the said stock."

The Chairman said they had heard the resolution read; he had great pleasure in moving that it be confirmed.

Mr. Ker seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously, and the proceedings ended.

LONDON LETTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

GENERAL GORDON'S MISSION.

Jan. 20, 1884.

The great news this morning is the sudden departure of General Gordon, not for the Congo, in a commission from the King of the Belgians, but for Souakim, on his way to the Soudan, with full powers from the British Government. Tardily, and when whipped into it by one or two of the London papers, the Government has thought proper not only to forego the threat of retiring General Gordon's commission in the British army should he accept a commission on the Congo from the Belgian Sovereign, but after reinstating General Gordon in the service, they send him to assist in mitigating the disasters in the Soudan, so true is it that with all the affected contempt by officials of newspapers, the Government of this country is a Government by the press. The Duke of Cambridge and Lord Wolseley were on the platform last evening to see General Gordon off at the station. His preparations were so rapid and quiet that there were few others that knew of his intended departure. Indeed, it had been announced that General Gordon was on his way to Brussels, and he was actually there when he was suddenly recalled home. He goes to Brindisi to catch the steamer for Suez, and makes direct for Souakim, without touching at Cairo.

There is no doubt, that whatever were the obstacles in the Cabinet, or at the Horse-Guards or War-Office, they have been overcome by Sir Samuel Baker, whose letter on the subject in the Pall-Mall Gazette a night or two ago, added strength to the remonstrances of that journal and the Daily News.

The obstacles, whether they arose at first from mere official etiquette, or personal jealousies, have been surmounted, and the Government has at last done something besides trusting to Sir Evelyn This or Sir Evelyn That, or even to the infallibility of the Premier himself, whose policy in Egypt was not to be disturbed by the Madhi, or by General Gordon's prejudices against serving under the Khédive. But this policy has been disturbed, and time only can tell what the British policy will absolutely be. "This will end in annexation," has often been said by even those who do not approve of annexation. However, the end may not yet be annexation, for it is quite true that England is not responsible for the operations in Soudan, which were the result of Egyptian ambitions since and before Tel-el-Kebir, but the fact pointed out by General Gordon and Sir Samuel Baker, and confirmed in to-day's newspaper intelligence, that the origin of the recent insurrection was not religious fanaticism, but the corruption and tyranny of the Turko-Egyptians, whom we have aided in being reinstated in power, most distinctly condemns the British policy in Egypt from the very commencement of the late troubles in Cairo and Alexandria. It is curious to read in the English papers recommendations to the Government that Arabi should be recalled from Ceylon. Stranger things have happened than that. The present business in hand, however, is not the reforming of a constructive policy, or of overturning Tewfik, but of simply saving the lives of the garrisons of Khartoum, Berber and other places. The Tewfik Government turned a deaf ear to the prayers of General Coetlogon, that he might be allowed to abandon Khartoum. Meanwhile, the English Government is instrumental in turning out the former Ministry at Cairo. Poor Tewfik, who seems to be despised by every one but by Mr. Gladstone and his favourite agents in Egypt, puts up his yacht for sale, and goes into sackcloth and ashes, whilst the English receive charge of his Government; but all this takes time, and, in the interim, the Madhi advances, and to-day we hear that Khartoum is surrounded by the Arabs, and, as it were, the faint cries are heard of the doomed, who have lost all hope of relief or retreat, for the river-way has been cut off by sunken vessels; Much of this may be exaggeration; it is not thought possible that any portion of the Madhi's army itself can have arrived at Khartoum, whatever danger may arise from hostile Bedouins; nor is it likely that the Nile, which is still of some width in those regions can be blocked. But from one reason or another the worst is apprehended both in Khartoum and Barber, and even in Sinkat down to Souakim where Baker Pasha is powerless. The only way of hope comes from friendly Tribes of Arabs who hearing that the Soudan was to be abandoned naturally made their peace with the Madhi, but now seeing that the English are stirring in Souakim they begin to come in and offer terms. This was precisely what General Gordon who knows the country told us would happen, and that if instead of preaching in the market place our abandonment of the Soudan, we had long since made terms with the Tribe, by this time the garrisons, women, children and merchants now at the mercy of the hordes would have been saved. At all events it might have been so; and whatever happened we had done our best in circumstances not made altogether by ourselves and from the first rather hopeless; although as Mr. Broadley reminds us in his book, we are certainly responsible for allowing the score of Turks and Circassians who came back to Cairo with Tewfik to degrade not only Arabi and his chiefs, but the very soldiers. These ill-used, unpaid, and militarily degraded men of Arabi's army were pressed at the last moment into service for the Soudan. Many of them deserted before they reached Suez, and others have perhaps gone over to the enemy. The end may be what is feared and foreshadowed to-day—now disasters which will be nice and fresh for the Conservatives about the time of the opening of Parliament, but the Conservatives would have done no better. They would have done much worse. It is their policy which in an evil hour Mr. Gladstone continued, with the additional disadvantage of being hampered by his own private fads. The Pall Mall of to-night heads a leader on Gordon's mission—"In for it," and saying "that the whole Egyptian question has been revolutionised in an hour. At yesterday's informal meeting of the Ministers at the War Office, there was taken one of those decisive steps that make or mar the destinies of Empires."

That is perhaps a little too exaggerated. The importance, however, of General Gordon's mission is, that as he refused to take his orders from anyone but the English Government, we are certainly "in for it" and will have to acknowledge our responsibilities in Egypt to Turk or Frenchman.

I have left no space for other subjects, but I may add that there was something in the Times of yesterday about the change of British Ministers in the Argentine Republic and Republic of Uruguay.

The Uruguay Unification bonds will be issued about the 28th prox. The immense labour of the signing by Mr. Carve, the Minister in London, of each individual bond, has been saved by the Stock-Exchange agreeing to take stamped signatures. In general financial matters there is nothing beyond the firmness of the money market, owing to the singular phenomenon of a great demand for gold in Australia where we are now remitting. This arises from the immense wool clip, the abundant harvest and general wave of prosperity passing over the Australian colonies. Canovas is again in power in Madrid and Spanish affairs become important.

PARIS LETTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Jan. 18.

The consequence of associating with the Chinese is already telling on France, as she continues to expel the "foreign devils." The Germans have never been in the odour of sanctity since 1870, and the English and other dwellers beyond Mesopotamia are rapidly being similarly classed. This "lock-out" of the stranger does not look hopeful for Victor Hugo's European republic, nor indeed is it maintaining what the French call their national hospitality. The Anarchists have a more pellucid programme; they recognise as a man and brother, whether he dwell at Indus or the Pole, all who aid to demolish society and who can lodge lead pills in the fattest and most vital part of a bourgeois; then, man to man the wide world o'er, shall brothers be for a' that. During the First Revolution a journal appeared, and but one number, like the Idées Napoleon; it contained a project of law of two clauses: "1. Nothing exists. 2. Nobody is entrusted with the carrying out of this decree." Its lines might be revived.

Creuzot is the most celebrated smelting works and iron foundry in France. Indeed, it ranks as an institution. This establishment has just dismissed its last batch, about 120, of foreign workmen. Among the latter are several Englishmen who held skilled positions. Creuzot is not so much a factory as an iron world, for it employs directly and indirectly over 11,000 persons. Its operations comprise the extraction and smelting of iron ore, the working of coal mines, the manufacture of locomotives, marine engines, rails, bridges, and various articles of domestic iron work—a kind of needle-to-an-anchor ability.

Creuzot is situated about 19 miles south-east of Autun, in the department of the Saône-et-Loire; it is thus in the centre of France, and in direct communication—by rail, river, and canal—with every corner of the realm. The Metallurgic Society of Creuzot was founded in 1782, under the auspices of Louis XVI., who was shareholder for a moiety of the capital. Its object was to make iron with coke after the process brought from England by Williams-Wilkinson. The following year Marie Antoinette established a glass works in the neighbourhood, and which later became the now famous establishment Baccarat.

The Creuzot Society was ruined by the Napoleon wars. It was put up for sale in 1808 and bought for 950,000 fr. An English firm took the works in hand twenty years later, but failed. Ultimately the Schneider Brothers bought up the scrip, and it is now the property of that family, being directed by young Henri Schneider and his brother-in-law. The late M. Schneider, who was President of the Corps Legislatif under the Second Empire—a sharp, shrewd, rosy little Frenchman—quickly took in the natural advantages of his property, his social position and political connections. He decided that, in order to make Creuzot national, he must commence by making it English. French artisans were intelligent and theorish, but they were deficient in practical ability and enterprise. The result of his visit to England in 1846 was to arrange for a steady supply of English skilled workmen and the most improved machinery and tools.

Next followed almost the reconstruction of the works; furnaces, coke ovens foundries, rolling mills, factories and feeding railways. The mineral concession is at Mazenay, 27 miles from Creuzot, and includes a surface of nine square miles; the coal beds concession embrace a surface of 40 square miles, and the establishment is built on them. The water supply is abundant. The premises cover 300 acres, of which 215 acres are actually under buildings. It has railway lines, including running powers over a part of the Lyons railway, amounting to 106 miles; has 20 locomotives in its service, and 600 waggons. About 300,000 tons of iron ore, and the same of coal, are annually extracted. Perhaps one-third of the output of the ore, 100,000 tons, represents the yearly product of manufactured metal; of which 60,000 tons are rails; 10,000 sheet, and 30,000 forged iron. Some 130 locomotives are built during the year, besides steam boilers, marine engines, barges, bridges, pumps, etc representing a total of some 40 millions francs of affairs.

The vein of ore is rich and as thick as two yards in the deepest mine. But Creuzot receives ore from other regions of France, from the Isle of Elba, and from Algeria. The coal is found at the surface of the soil in some places, but the best is from mines about 1300 yards in depth. It is a good all-round coal, but to make excellent coke, it has to be mixed with the "fatter" coal from Saint-Etienne. The ovens convert 1200 tons of coal daily into 900 tons of coke. There are 30 Nasmyth hammers, and 16 blast furnaces. The puddlers earn fr. 8 a day.

Creuzot made the first locomotive in France for a home railway; that 'comet' has disappeared. The factory supplies eastern Europe with a good deal of railway rolling stock, and aims rather to have old orders renewed, than to take new ones; this saves fresh designs. At Mazenay, the miners are a comfortable fraternity, live on white bread, beef, and wine; they can have a special villa and garden for fr. 80 a year; or can be boarded, lodged, and washing supplied, for 4 fr. per month. There is a canteen for the sale of provisions, cooked or uncooked. Of the total 11,000 workpeople, 1,400 are employed in the ore, and 1500 in the coal mines. There is a branch establishment at Chalons, mainly devoted to the production of girders for bridges etc.

Every facility has been provided for the educational and recreative wants of the population. There are no police; not two convictions in the year take place; illegitimacy is one-half less than are the natural children in Paris, and the various trades live together harmoniously. At the close of the Second Empire the celebrated Socialist Assy created a little restlessness; he was soon attracted to Paris, and drawn into the vortex of the Commune. He is now amnestied, and the owner of a little Creuzot establishment in New Caledonia.

"When does a man become a seamstress?" "When he hems and haws." "No." "When he treads his way." "No." "When he rips and tears." "No." "Give it up." "Never, if he can help it."

TRAVEL AND COLONISATION.

A WALK IN PATAGONIA
BY AN ARGENTINE NATURALIST.

A Furious Gale was just beginning to abate; it had lasted all night, and I had been hourly expecting that the crazy old steamer in which I was a passenger from Buenos Aires to the Rio Negro would come to grief. I retired at three o'clock in the morning, but was quicky roused from a pleasant dose by the bumping of the ship on the rocks. In a moment I was on deck again; it was still intensely dark and raining, but the sea all round us was white as milk with the foam of breakers. Luckily, after a few moments of terrible suspense, a friendly wave drove us off the rock and into deeper water; then, for a space of ten minutes, the steamer rushed smoothly on till she suddenly came to a standstill once more, this time on the sand. The wind had ceased, and through the fast dispersing clouds appeared the first welcome signs of dawn. Something black was directly before us, which the increasing light soon showed to be a range of low hills or dunes of sand, scarcely a stone's throw from the bow. I was not inclined to remain longer in the steamer to incur the danger a second time of its being dashed to pieces on the rocks, and so, accompanied by three other passengers—two students from Buenos Aires and an Italian emigrant—I was lowered over the ship's side and waded merrily to land. The tide had gone out now, and there were only 3ft. of water under the bows. We were not long in scrambling up the yellow dunes to get a view of the country beyond. At last Patagonia! How often had I pictured in my imagination, how long wished to visit, this sweet wilderness, resting far off in its primitive peace and beauty, unexplored, remote from civilization! There it lay at last full in sight before me; the ancient dwelling place of giants, whose foot-prints seen on the sea-shore amazed Magulhaens and his men; the land of Trapalanda, and the lake on whose shores spring the towers and battlements of that mysterious undiscovered city, belief in the existence of which is still fondly cherished in Chili and La Plata. Not only those legends and traditions, so dear to the fancy, had made me look forward to this visit; in my love of birds I had a stronger motive, for here was perhaps the summer resort of many of my feathered favourites. The birds I had known only as messengers of winter in more northern regions, I hoped to meet here, and to discover, perhaps, the nesting habits of some of them. Of these are the great blue-winged curlew, called Vanduria in the gauchos poetical vernacular; the maroon-coloured upland geese; and those pretty tyrant birds of rasorial habits, the Teniopteras, that live on the great treeless plains, and wear a Dominican dress of purest white, with quills tipped with black; also the numerous plover, snipe, and Tringæ that fly north before the cold autumnal winds, uttering those plaintive cries that have such a wild engaging music in them. These are all birds of passage, and the mere fact that a species possesses the instinct of migration invests it in my mind with a special interest, a peculiar charm. Doubtless the reason of this is because on the vast level pampas, where I have studied the habits of birds, this great annual movement manifests itself in a more striking manner than elsewhere. The wave of migration in autumn begins to flow towards the equatorial regions early in February, continuing till the end of May, and during all that time the migrants are to be seen by day and to be heard by night, "wailing their way from cloud to cloud," inspired by that mysterious thought-baffling faculty which always seems to stamp the instinct impelling birds to change their climate with a character peculiarly its own, raising it as near as any natural phenomenon can be raised to the realm of the unknowable.

From the dunes, we saw before us a boundless, undulating plain, covered with short crisp grass, seared by summer, and sparsely dotted over with a few sombre-foliaged bushes. It was the primitive wilderness, but sweet to look upon, its quiet only broken by the occasional twitter of some wild bird, while the morning air was made delicious with a faint familiar perfume. Casting my eyes down, I perceived at my feet an evening primrose plant in full flower, and this—an old garden favourite—was the sweet perfumer of the wilderness.

Our survey concluded, we set out in the direction of the Rio Negro. Before quitting the steamer the captain had informed us that we were north of the river, about twenty-fives miles, he conjectured, which seems a long distance for an able navigator to have got out of his reckoning in the course of a single night. At first we kept close to the dunes bordering the seashore, and waded through a luxuriant growth of wild liquorice—a lovely plant about eighteen inches high, with deep green feathery leaves, and crowned with clusters of pretty blue flowers. Some of the roots which we pulled up from the loose sandy soil were upwards of two yards in length. All the druggists in the world might easily have laid in a five years' supply of roots from the plants we saw that morning.

There is nothing in life comparable with that feeling of escape and absolute freedom one experiences in a vast solitude, where man has perhaps never been, and has, at any rate, left no visible trace of his existence. It was here that Darwin was so powerfully moved by this feeling. He speaks of it in the "Voyage of a Naturalist," and of myself I can say that my heart had never before been so keenly affected by it. I experienced this emotion subsequently on many occasions, for somehow in Patagonia one not only knows but feels also that one is in the loveliest country on the globe. Having these exhilarating sensations, I was by no means elated when we descried, some distance ahead of us, the low roofs of half a dozen mud cabins. My fellow travellers were, however, delighted with the discovery, and we hastened on, thinking we were nearer to the settlement than we had at first supposed. But we found the houses uninhabited, the doors broken down, the well choked up and overgrown with liquorice plants.

We learnt subsequently that a few venturesome herdsmen, with their families, had made their home in this remote spot, and that about a year before our visit the Indians had swept down on them and destroyed the young settlement. Very soon we turned our backs on the ruined hovels, my companions loudly expressing their disapointment. I was secretly glad that we were yet to a drink little more deeply of the cup of wild nature.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The Royal Mail steamer Mondego took yesterday a pretty big mail and a few passengers, who had a frying sail to the Outer Roads.

A hollow peace now reigns in Tramway circles. The dissenters charge the old eight cents, and Lacroze charges five ditto, but all are not satisfied with Mr. Lacroze. The question now is, on the tails of whose coat do the "Collective Intellectuality intend to tread next?

Santley, the great baritone, may have some friends in this part of the world who will be glad to read the following extract from a home paper received by the mail:—

"Mr. Charles Santley, the well-known baritone singer, was married on Monday at the Roman Catholic Church of Our Lady, Grove-road, St. John's Wood, to Miss Elizabeth Innes, a wealthy American lady.

The happiness of wedded life
Most people when they marry own:
Then let us wish it to his wife,
And to our favourite baritone.

His golden notes, which charm the ear,
Have often o'er us cast a spell;
And now we all are charmed to hear
His wife has gold an' notes as well.

Mr. Latham, our popular British "empresario," familiarly called "Our Dan," will soon leave for England to make his arrangements for the coming winter's dramatic campaign. This time he means to strike out much more boldly than last year, and will give us all the best and latest high-class plays on the London stage, with the richest furniture and appointments from England and France. Mr. W. Sculler has gone to England with full authority to make engagements. Mr Latham, however, means to soar still higher, and the site for an entirely English Theatre has already been negotiated. The season will open on August 1st next, with seven ladies and ten gentlemen artists. Miss Arden is re-engaged, and a well-known exponent of Irish character will appear in the following celebrated pieces:—

Peep o' Day Boys
The O'Dowd
The Eviction
Arrah-na-Pogue
The Shraughraun
The Colleen Bawn
Eileen Oge
Handy Andy,

and numerous others.

The Lamothe forgery swindle was an eye-opener for the market yesterday, and in banking and commercial circles nothing else was spoken of. The Provincial and some of the private banks are the victims. £60,000 is a pretty stiff haul for the moral agriculturist for whom the police are now hunting.

The young fellow Hernandez, who stole 300 pats on Wednesday and locked himself in a room declaring he would blow his brains out if the police attempted to break in to arrest him, was captured on Thursday by a clever ruse. Spirits was freely supplied to him, and he was soon fast asleep, when the police entered, secured the revolver, and transferred him to the Comisaria. By some unpardonable carelessness of the police there, he managed to get hold of the revolver again, and blew his brains out on the spot.

"Tommy," said another to her seven-year old boy, "you must not interrupt me when I am talking with ladies. You must wait till we stop, and then you may talk." "But you never stop," retorted the boy.

During the Monday and Tuesday of Carnival there will be played a two days Cricket Match at Palermo, between Buenos Aires and Rosario, and we cannot do better than recommend all British residents to turn up; a most exciting contest being expected, as we hear that both teams are very strong and well represented. Besides the Cricket Match there will be a Lawn Tennis Contest between the Cities, which will give additional interest to the spectators. The ladies will always find shade in the Grand Stand and enjoy the breeze which almost invariably blows across the ground, congratulating themselves that they are, at any rate, "far from the pomitoing crowd" when on the Club Ground.

The Buenos Aires Custom House is going ahead faster than ever. One million Nats. received for duties in the first fortnight of this month.

There'll be lots of small change going soon. Within the past week the Mint has sold to the public 6000 National dollars worth of two and one cent pieces, and will coin nothing but coppers until the public demand for small change is satisfied. Once we all get into the swing of the National money it will be far easier and pleasanter for everybody than the old paper dollar system.

Great news for youngsters of both sexes. Messrs Carlo Brothers' Circus American Company will soon arrive here from the United States. The Company is complete in every respect, equally in its stud of horses and ponies as in the number and excellence of its artists. There is also a Zoological collection of trained animals.

The new tariff on the Central Tramway will come into operation to-morrow. Some of our colleagues are trying to raise another ruction and say that Lacroze has completely bamboozled the Municipality, by dividing his lines into sections, and that his fares are higher than ever. We cannot see this; but if Lacroze has really got the blind side of such cute customers as the City Fathers, then he should first be gold-medalled for his cleverness, and then made to reduce his fare to two red cents all round.

Other foemen for the steel of the C. I. The 'Confiterias' have raised the price of ham-sandwiches to five cents, and of 'choppes' to ten. This outrageous attempt on the public purse must be resisted. Mutton chops are dear enough without raising the price of beer "choppes" also.

The new railway from San Nicolas to Pergamino does not give much satisfaction, and there is already a growl about "demoras," etc. The old story.

Mr. Lopez has won the first round in his law-suit with the Rowing Club. The first blood drawn from the latter, in the way of costs, is only a drop—51 nats.

The French St. Cloud Fetes will positively wind up to-morrow. The bill of fare is big: Distribution of prizes to the Swiss Riflemen; music; wizard's tricks by the Invulnerable Man; lotteries for 80,000 m/c, and lots of other fun.

The Democrata of yesterday made a merciless exposé of several of the so-called Lotteries by which the public are swindled. It's a caution.

Telephone dresses are the latest craze for Carnival. They are made of blue electric satin, trimmed with gold thread; the hat is in the form of a telephone.

The old Globo Hotel, in Calle 25 de Mayo, has changed hands, and has now become a family hotel on a very complete and comfortable scale. The house has been painted and papered from top to bottom, and furnished afresh. The new proprietors, Messrs. Bernadet and Ancinelle, are most attentive and obliging, and very anxious to please English and German visitors. The prices are very moderate. See advertisement.

A North American has just put together a solar burning glass that will melt everything but stone in five minutes. This is a nice look-out for iron-clad fleets. The same glass produces a light like the sun, which no naked eye can face. Electro Light tremble!

We have an idea that if next winter prove wet, some of the new houses at La Plata will require stiffening, like the Egytian army. The shower of rain the other night caused several of them to almost melt away, so superior is the mortar employed in them.

A new yacht, due to the enterprise of the Marina Club, has just been launched from Dn. José Parodi's yard. She will be christened next Sunday at twelve o'clock, and there is a grand lunch in preparation at the Recreo, in the Riachuelo. Her name will be "Anita," and we wish Miss Anita a long and prosperous life.

A young lady's society for the better propagation of fun, to be called "Las Coquetas," is in process of formation. The name is of high significance, and we are afraid that there will be a serious casualty list, in which the item "broken hearts" will not by any means be the most unimportant. The young ladies in the Once are the originators, perpetrators and sole responsible agents for any mischief that may occur. Our subscribers in that quarter are, therefore, fully warned.

The only paper manufactory in the country was, for the third time, under the hammer yesterday. This industry, strange as it must appear, seems doomed never to make headway in the country, although surely an absence of consumption cannot be urged. Perhaps, it only requires to be properly managed to be a success.

Bank defrauding seems to be a species of contagious disease now. A regular series of frauds has just been committed on the Provinc

Cedulas C	99½
Cedulas E	87⅞
Cedulas F	84⅛
National Bank Shares....	130⅜

A reaction has begun in the market after the great activity of the last few days; operations to-day were dull in the extreme, and both Cedulas and shares ruled flat, but apparently firm at the closing rates. Fourteen hundred shares of the National Bank were sold for the end of the month, according to the figures on the black board, but half the operations marked on the board are considered sham sales. The market opened at 130⅜, fell to 130, and closed with buyers at 130⅜. The reaction has fallen back into the dull old groove of sham sales and heaviness.

Cedulas ruled firm although operations were very limited. Twelve hundred Series C were sold for cash at 99½; this Series comes very seldom on the market. Fifty thousand Series E changed hands for cash at 87⅞, and 1,000 were sold for the end of March at the same rate. The market closed firm at 87⅞. A few thousand of Series F were sold at 84⅛, firm.

The exchange market is firm, but little was done to-day. The money market continues stringent, but the feeling is better for the moment.

All the favorable news of the loans, Cedulas and National Bank Shares were forgotten when the news spread of the Lamotte forgery. At first the most exaggerated accounts were spread, owing to the expanded versions of some of the papers. The party in question was a wine merchant of standing in this market and well known in certain fashionable quarters. He forged the best-known signatures in this market to the amount of about 50,000$. All the banks have been taken in with the exception of the Italian Bank. The forgery was discovered in the Provincial Bank, where about 20,000$ of these bills were discounted. Brokers in the market state that the signatures are forged in a slovenly manner, and the wonder is how the banks could be so easily deceived. These frequent forgeries are alarming people. The signatures forged are those of Tornquist. Drysdale, Cadret, etc. etc.

Operations in the Once market are very dull and very little produce arrives in the market. The Once in the South Market is large, and business is much brisker than in the Once.

Two wooden houses have been ordered by the mail to-day, each house two-stories high, 12 rooms with verandah, cost 531 pats each; both these houses are for new estancias on the Loreto camps. A fine two-story, 32 roomed hotel for Curumalan, and two cottages also have been ordered by the mail. We note the matter to show how American wooden houses are now coming in vogue in the Plate.

The sale of two leagues of good land lying between the Loreto camps and the Rio Cuarto Railway, is spoken of; the business, we believe, is not yet concluded, and the price of the land is reserved, but we believe 10,000 pats per league.

It was very freely stated on 'Change to-day that next month the Provincial Bank will move in toto out to La Plata, that the Board of Directors will reside out there, and only an agency be left here. It is difficult to say how this new arrangement will work, and we incline to think that the head establishment must always be in this city, however, we give the news for what it is worth. The Mortgage Bank will also be moved out in toto to La Plata; we think if they strip the market of these two banks, the sooner they move out the Bolsa to La Plata the better. It is really difficult to contemplate such mighty changes.

The Minister of Hacienda will visit the Boca to-morrow in company with Mr S. Unzue; we hope Lamport & Holt's steamer will be alongside the Drysdale mole when H.E reaches there. Nothing in the Plate rivals the growth of the Boca, at the rate things are marching down there, soon the Boca will be another Glasgow.

There were rumours on 'Change that some of the largest steamers plying between England and the Plate have been taken up by the Admiralty, to act as transports carrying troops to Egypt. This of course will affect freights in Europe.

The following were the sales at the ring during official hours:—

Cedulas—
For cash C 1,200 at 99-½
For cash E 50,000 at 87⅞
For March 31st E 10,000 at 87⅞
For cash F 14,000 at 84⅛
Sales, 75,200
National Bank Shares—
For Feb. 29th 1,400 at 130⅜-⅝-½-⅜-130-½-⅜-⅝
Total, 2,037
The Provincial Bank discounted to-day $250,000 m/n.

Fifty thousand patacons were discounted in the market to-day at 7 o/o.

Several cargoes of pitch pine en route for the R. Plate are reported lost.

Fair amounts of exchange were passed to-day at 5.05 in francs and 5. 04-04½ in marks.

The market ruled exceedingly dull during afternoon; Cedulas E closed at 87⅛ sellers for the end of the month and National Bank Shares at 130½. Operations were very small in both stocks.

The Patria Argentina publishes a stunning telegram announcing the smash of 300 grain firms in the United States.

The freight market shows no change; the supply of produce is fair and bales are offering. The Ville de Buenos Aires has engaged a full cargo.

The market will regret to hear that Mr. Oscar Dieckhoff died at Potsdam on the 11th ult. Mr. Dieckhoff was formerly a barraquero in this market, and much esteemed by all who knew him.

Telegrams from Europe announce a squeeze in the grain market in some places, owing to the fall in prices. This news coincides with the news from the States.

Six square leagues of land, situated in Lincoln, near the Fortin Tres Viejos, were sold to-day at the rate of 350,000$ % cash per league. Seller, Mr N. Samson; buyer, Mr. Belaustegui and Saraldeaga.

The Euclid has brought out £130,000 in specie—£75,000 for Montevideo and £55,000 for two banks in this market. She will be up to-morrow.

From the Plaza Once we have the following:—
91 waggons of produce arrived.
The arrivals to-day were:—
20,800 @ wool
1,683 sacks of wheat
83 bales hay
And much of other produce. Prices of produce in general continue flat, and very few buyers.
The sales were:—
Wool—
2,000 @ superior, good and regular, 95, 90, 80, Ojea
400 borrega, 80, 67, A Ojea
4,000 @ special, superior, good and regular, 92, 90, 79, 75, Chillado
